OF SAINT JOSEPH'S COLLEGE • VOL. 12 • AUGUST, 1993 • RENSSELAER, IN 47978

DR. ALBERT J. SHANNON, PH.D.
President

President welcomes first-year students

Welcome to a community in the middle of one of its most significant transformations in history! I know that you will want to be a vital part of the changing life on the SJC campus - my door is always open. Initially, I ask for your prayers in my new role at Saint Joseph's. I look forward to offering service to the institution and helping to make it the type of institution in which you can continue your pride. My life and professional responsibilities will change radically this year; however, I promise never to remove students from the center of all that I do.

I look forward to spending time with each of you. I am fully aware of the fact that I have bought into a twenty-four hour a day job ... and I look forward to every minute. You will continue to find my wife, MJ, and I turning up in the strangest places on campus. I am hopeful that you will continue to welcome both of us into your meetings, dorm rooms, classrooms, and lives.

The community evolves as you become involved

By SISTER LINDA KORS, C.S.C.
Director of Campus Ministry

Community is one of those words that is used in various situations and places. The college campus is no exception. Even in a recent letter, "On Catholic Universities," Pope John Paul II states that "the Catholic University (college) pursues its objectives through its formation of an authentic human community animated by the spirit of Christ. The source of its unity springs from a common dedication to the truth, a common vision of the dignity of the human person and, ultimately, the person and message of Christ."

There is a great potential for community development at Saint Joseph's College if people are willing to call forth the other person to share their specific talents and gifts. Jesus taught us this and also showed us how community is not static. It is a transforming experience when all gifts are recognized and shared. Together we can make Saint Joseph's College a new and challenging place that builds on the heritage and best gifts of the past.

Each of you might have ideas or interests that could be a part of programs or events that occur on campus. Once you share your thoughts and dreams the new community is in the process of becoming. We each must challenge ourselves to listen to each other. This is a new moment and something that may not have worked in the past may have potential in the future. If something hasn't been tried it doesn't mean it can't work.

People will tell you that these are the most important years of your life. They can be if you not only develop skills and a knowledge base to succeed in the job market, but also learn what you can do for others. You have been given the opportunity to grow and expand your horizons. You must make the choice of how you are to spend your time at Saint Joseph's College. Many great programs and events are around you. These experiences might even transform your life. The way that we share in each event helps make community happen.

Many changes have occurred on campus this year with a new president and other positions related to that. Campus Ministry and the role of the College Chaplain also has a new look. The chaplain is working together with the coordinator of campus ministry to address the needs of the campus community at different levels. Campus Ministry is here to do what we can to develop Christian Community. You are each a part of the Campus Ministry team in your own specific way. Get involved so you can be a part of the developing of this new endeavor. We all make this the best place for the Christian community to occur.

Saint Joseph, our patron saint

By DIANE JENNINGS

Director of Counseling Services

Welcome to Saint Joseph's College. Welcome to the world of unknowns. If you survived "Jurassic Park," there is hope you will survive the college experience.

Let's regress a little, not as far back as the Jurassic age, but perhaps to the age of the introduction of Saint Joseph as a person into your life... the Saint Joseph for whom this college was named. Where does Saint Joseph fit into your life? What do you know about Saint Joseph? Do you have a history of Saint Joseph? What traits do you see in Saint Joseph? Who are the Josephs in your life?

In my generation, Joseph fit easily into life: the knowledge of his history was generously sprinkled throughout twelve years of Catholic education. He became known to me as a person who was a dutiful husband and parent. He was considered the Patron Saint among many ethnic and occupational groups. How many of you presently have names that are derived from Joseph? Joe, Maryjo, Joanne, Billy Joe, Jolene, Josephine? In my generation, there were many peers whose names included some form of Joseph. For me as a young student in a Catholic atmosphere, priorities were devotions to Joseph and Mary. Also passed down through the generations has been the heritage of recognition of the names Joseph and Mary as powerful spiritual guides. Some of your parents may remember turning in school papers always with the insignia "JMJ" on the top of the paper.

It was very clear to me that Joseph ranked pretty high in the pecking order of Saints. The traits I attributed mostly to Joseph were gentleness, responsibility, trustfulness, and strength in relation to his family, occupation, and relationships with others.

So, how does Saint Joseph fit into your life, or better yet, does he fit into your life at all? To your generation, Joseph can be perceived as gender free. He is a Saint that has endured throughout the generations. The effects of his history are everlasting. Do you have a knowledge of the history of Saint Joseph? Are you curious about getting to know the Patron Saint of this College? His message is pertinent to all religious backgrounds.

I challenge all of you to develop the curiosity to find the resources that will better acquaint you personally with this esteemed Saint. Take the many opportunities offered to you at Saint Joseph's College to get to know him. Priests, Brothers, Sisters, professors, scriptures, and library holdings can all be resources of knowledge for you. If you can't answer in depth about Joseph's life, what traits would you identify with Joseph? Does he represent more to you an identity of his traits opposed to an identity of his history? Do you have a knowledge of the responsibility and human caring for another individual that Joseph exhibited in his relationship with Jesus and Mary?

So too, you will be called upon many times these first few months to be a role model, to exercise these traits as you begin a life that is not so private, a life that begins with the expectation that you will accommodate personally to community living. Whether these accommodations take place in the dorm, classroom, or on the playing fields, will you effectively be able to care for these new people in your life? At what point in your life will it make a difference to you to responsibly accept the role that will best provide you with the growth to be happy with yourself, to better serve others? A role similar to the responsibility that Joseph accepted as a parent to the Baby Jesus.

Or could Joseph represent to you the traits of gentleness and strength that has been attributed to him in his everyday work ethic as a hard worker who never complained but seemed more to enjoy the quiet role of silent accomplishment. Please be assured this is a

Ian Malcom, the mathematician in "Jurassic Park" offers an interesting antithesis to linear equation, called "chaos" or "turbulence" theory. Many educators define learning as bringing order from chaos.

Having had the enviable pleasure of sharing some 36 years with Diane Jennings, I can assure you she's an expert at bringing order from chaos whether by linear or non linear means. We met at Purdue University in 1956 and she graduated with a B.S. in Foreign Languages in 1957, the year we married. Over the next 20 years she managed to raise 9 children (2 sets of twins) and earned a Master's Degree in Counseling from Purdue University in 1979 while serving as the Assistant Dean of Students at Saint Joseph's College — talk about turbulence.

Those were the tough years for the College, but Diane's stabilizing presence along with myriad others, helped ease Saint Joseph's through that chaotic time. The students voted her Administrator of the Year and presented her with the Wooden Cask Award in 1978-1979.

As a competitive swimmer, Diane won a national championship at age 15; I've admired her colored portrait at the Indianapolis Athletic Club as late as this past summer. Her love of that sport continues to this day as she instructs in water safety and lifeguard training for the Department of Physical Education during her lunch hours.

More important though is her responses to people in need, whenever or wherever, and her ability to shape and apply intervention theory to enable them to restore order in their own lives.

Her deep seated Christian values and sense of fair play make me glad that I'm a Catholic (with a Judeo-Christian flavor) and that I had the good sense to pursue her until she made me her husband. Want to make a friend for life? Say hi to Diane and let it happen — there is no way chaos will shake that friendship. —Mr. Diane Jennings role that has been passed down through the generations and sought after by many.

An example of this is a person who exudes strength of purpose but is more of a listener than the person who seeks the limelight. By this time you have already found such a person, whether it be among your peer group, your professors, your resident assistant, or your Freshman Leader ... or maybe you are fulfilling this role yourself. Listeners are to be treasured. They allow the talkers the strength to grow in thought and mind.

Joseph's family situation as a father was quite unusual at the time. What more perfect Saint to represent today's youth with all the diversity that exists in families. We need to realize we all come from different backgrounds, inherit different family weaknesses, and exhibit different family strengths.

And finally, who are the Josephs in your life? My immediate Josephs are my husband and family. My extended Josephs kick in when I become a part of the team life of students, faculty, and staff at Saint Joseph's College. Look at your past support system for the Josephs that gave you strength and gentleness. Now your Josephs will be part of this present college community.

So, as Joseph did, pick up your staff, accept the fact you are in college, and devise a plan for your own personal success in tandem with your Josephs.

You need to know you are never alone physically and spiritually. If you are facing any inner weakness or turmoil, you need to know there are people that can help you. You need to know your school's Patron Saint is always with you. You can ask him for strength and guidance, and when you are kept awake at night with personal worries and questions, remember to turn your turmoil over to Joseph's Son ... He stays up all night anyway.

Meet your Freshman Leaders

Who they are, what they do

The Freshman Leaders are interviewed in the spring and selected on the basis of their academic achievement, acquaintances with college services, leadership ability, and willingness to work with new students to acquaint them with college resources.

The Freshmen Leader serves as a role model as he/she helps to ease the student into the academic and social atmosphere at SJC.

The Freshman Leader will escort the freshmen on his/her floor to all the events during the Orientation Program and is totally available as a resource.

In addition, throughout the year, the Freshman Leader, along with the Freshman Academic Advisor, will team-teach the newly designed Freshman Seminar, worth one credit hour. This class meets weekly to focus on transition into college.

ROSANNE ZURAD

"To get the full experience of SJC, you need to get active. Join clubs, go to Senate meetings and express your ideas to the Student Leaders. College is only what you make it, so take pride in SJC and get involved."

Rosanne is a junior studying Accounting. She is the Student Association Treasurer, an SJC Admissions courier, Chairperson of Campus Beautification Committee, and the Secretary for Alpha Lambda Delta. Also, Rosanne enjoys watching Comedy Central in free time.

SURVIVAL & SUCCESS SKILLS

for First-Year Students

By DR. ALLEN BERGER

Dean of Freshmen

Welcome to Saint Joseph's College!

I hope the coming weeks and months are a positive and exciting experience for each of you. I'm sure that many of you have questions and perhaps some doubts or apprehensions about beginning college. That's natural, and certainly normal.

My freshman advising staff and I have one main goal:

During orientation and throughout first semester (a period we refer to as extended orientation) we want to help you deal with your concerns and make a successful transition to college life.

During orientation and the freshman seminar you'll meet several key people who will help you adjust to Saint Joseph's.

These include your orientation group leader, your freshman seminar student leaders, and your faculty advisor. These staff members have been trained to assist you. They're friendly and approachable, so feel free to call upon them.

Your group leader will try to make you feel at home during orientation.

He or she will also accompany you to the many scheduled events during orientation. To give you a chance to start making new friends, you'll generally be grouped with other new students from your dorm floor. If you're a new commuting student, we'll try to give you a chance to meet some of the other new commuters (maybe you can even coordinate transportation plans!), plus we'll get you involved in activities with the resident students.

Your freshman seminar leaders will work with you throughout first semester in a one-credit course that all freshmen take.

You'll meet with your freshman seminar group on Thursday and Sunday during orientation and once a week thereafter.

This team will help you plan your freshman year and will work with you to develop what I call "college survival and success skills."

One of the most important things you and your advisor will do during the first days of orientation is plan your first semester academic schedule. Please don't worry if your freshman advisor is not from the academic area you're thinking about as a possible major or concentration. We planned it that way to lessen the pressures on you.

Your advisor will help you explore all your academic options and interests.

If during your freshman year you develop new interests or you change your mind about your intended course of study, your advisor can assist you in sorting things out. He or she has been trained to help you in planning your first year program, no matter what your academic interests or intended major may be.

Many of you may be wondering what you'll study at Saint Joseph's College, what your major will be, what courses you should take. My main message to you is: RELAX.

If you're unsure about a major, there's plenty of time to decide on one. If you've decided already, that's fine too.

Remember, there's no problem with changing your mind later. There are only a few courses of study at SJC (your advisor can tell you about them) in which you have to get started right away as a first semester freshman in order to complete all the graduation requirements in four years. During the coming year, your advisor will help you make an informed decision about a major so that by the middle of second semester you can be transferred to a new advisor within your intended area of specialization.

For now, my advice to you is to use your freshman year to explore your interests as fully as possible.

Broaden your horizons. Remember, there are many courses of study and extra-curricular activities here at Saint Joseph's College that probably didn't exist in your high school. The coming two semesters can become an exciting period of self-discovery.

I hope over the course of the semester you will come to regard both your advisor and the student leaders working with him/her as valuable resource persons.

None of these people can answer all your questions or solve all your problems. However, I can promise you that they'll know who to put you in touch with should you require assistance that they cannot provide personally.

Beyond the freshman seminar, one thing all of you will have in common is Saint Joseph's Core program.

In many ways, Core is the cornerstone of a Saint Joseph's College education. What Core provides is an integrated general education. It spans all four years of college and has the goal of bringing a broad range of subjects together into meaningful whole. Our graduates often tell us Core was the most important part of their education.

Core will develop your ability to communicate effectively and your capacity to think clearly.

These skills matter in every area of endeavor. That's why during the freshman year Core program we will be working very intensively with you in developing your listening, speaking, writing, and thinking skills. I can assure you that your hard work in these areas will bear many dividends.

Let's return to orientation before closing.

Remember, no question is silly if you need the answer and don't have it. There are a lot of people here to answer your questions, including me. As Dean of Freshmen, it's my job to oversee all aspects of the freshman academic experience. To do my job well I need to hear from you. I will undoubtedly teach some of you in my own classes, and I hope to meet many others of you in the cafeteria, on the walks around campus, or in your dorms. Please also feel free to stop by my office any time to chat and share your experiences. I can be found in Dwenger Hall, Room 103. My campus telephone is ext. 6247.

I wish you all a satisfying and rewarding year.

Dear New Pumas,

Puma Pride — two words that you will hear throughout your four years here at Saint Joseph's College. Those four years will seem like they take forever, yet they go by so quickly. Make the most of the years that you are here and always show your Puma Pride.

You are entering into college and decided to come here, to Saint Joe. You should be applauded by that choice because you have chosen an outstanding school. Many changes are happening now and will happen while you are a student over the next four years. I have a challenge for you, and that is to get involved.

Saint Joseph's College is just the right size with just the right people. Make an effort to get to know the people in your dorm, the people in your class, the professors, the staff and the administration. There are a variety of ways one can go about that — the one simple way is to smile and be friendly.

You will grow in many ways during your college career, not only because of what you are taught in the classroom, but also the late night talks you have with others, the club meetings, the government meetings, and other social events. Getting involved plays a vital role in your college career.

So, join a club, get a job, play a sport, or just be friendly and smile — they will help you grow and prosper.

Lastly, I wish you great times, lasting friendships, and an excellent education. All of these you will find right here at Saint Joseph's College. Always show your Puma Pride!!!

You're here—now what?

By MICHAEL Y. SCUDDER, JR. -

Senior of the Year, Class of 1993

Welcome to Saint Joseph's College! By now, you have probably begun to settle into your dorm room and attend the seemingly endless number of introductory meetings scheduled for you as freshmen. These first couple of days on campus can be quite overwhelming in that you are attempting to absorb a lot of new information as well as become familiar with the SJC campus. You are probably also meeting a bunch of new people, and really just trying to figure out what SJC is all about. Allow me to assure you of at least one thing: you've already made one excellent decision in choosing to come to St. Joe.

I graduated from SJC just four short months ago with a degree in accounting, and am now getting my first doses of what the so-called "real world" is all about. Believe me, so far the "real world" has been nothing to be afraid of or intimidated by because SJC has prepared me so well to face its many challenges. Regardless of what you choose to study at SJC, you can be assured the College will prepare you well over the course of the next four years. The combination of your individual major along with the Core Curriculum will work together to provide you with a well-rounded college education. The small class size of the College will also greatly benefit you. You will receive any individual attention you may need in a given subject plus become personally acquainted with your different professors.

SJC's greatest asset is its people. It will not take you long to see that SJC is a community of people committed to excellence in all of its pursuits. I encourage you to meet as many people as you possibly can during these first couple of weeks on campus. You will soon begin to develop new friendships with your fellow classmates as well as the SJC faculty and staff. These friendships will not only work to define your experience at SJC, but also greatly help you in making the transition from high school to college. It is also these friendships that you will take away from St. Joe for the rest of your life.

I would further like to encourage you to get involved within the SJC community. If you manage your time effectively, you will have plenty of time to not only complete your academic work, but also maintain steady involvement within the SJC community. The College plays host to just about every different kind of activity you could imagine. Early in the school year, the College will have an activities call out night in the Halleck Center. Attend this call out and see what all the College has to offer you in terms of extra-curricular activities.

These next four years will present a myriad of opportunities to you. Use these different opportunities to grow and develop into the person you want to be. Once again, be assured the College will do all it can to support and encourage you in all of your pursuits over the next four years. Best of luck!

Take advantage of what SJC has to offer

By KARA M. COSTA

Saint Joseph the Educator

Award Recipient, 1993

Hello! You should be congratulated on choosing Saint Joseph's College! With all the changes taking place, it's a very exciting time to be at the College. Besides, at what other college will you actually get to meet the school's President and have dinner at his house? AH! I have introduced you to one of the unique qualities of Saint Joseph's - personalization. I promise over the next four years, you'll discover ten or twenty more unique qualities.

For many of you, this is the first time you are away from home and all the securities Mom and Dad frequently offer. Well, welcome to dorm life, cafeteria food, and a whole lot of freedom to do what you want.

Now that Mom and Dad aren't there to tell you to do your homework or what time to be home, you get to make those decisions for yourself. You'll find that although you spend less hours in a classroom than you did in high school, you have to spend more time completing assignments in college.

But you'll also find that in between those assignments, you'll have a lot of free time on your hands. So, how will you fill this time? Take this opportunity to get involved in the many clubs and activities that exist on campus.

From intramural sports to academic clubs to campus ministry to the radio station, there are a host of things to do at Saint Joseph's. If you don't know where to find these activities, just ask someone - an upperclassman, professor, or academic advisor. They'll tell you about the activities you may be interested in or they will direct you to someone who can.

Don't be shy! At a college the size of Saint Joseph's, it's hard to hide in a dorm room for four years. So, get a head start! Get out and get involved in whatever you are interested in. Take up a new hobby - be a DJ on WPUM, Saint Joseph's own radio station; run for class president and become an active member of the Student Senate; get a team together for intramural volleyball or basketball.

All these activities are great ways to meet new people and make new friends. Besides, they help reduce the stress from classes ... or if you are active in Student Senate, they may add to those stresses! If nothing else, they will definitely help fill space on your resume in four years!

You'll find that Saint Joseph's is a very campus friendly college. By that I mean people (some you don't even know) will smile at you and say, "Hi!" the very first day you are walking to class. (AH! I told you that you would discover some unique things about Saint Joseph's.) Take the time to greet these people as well because chances are you will see them again on campus. You never know, they may end up in one of your classes or as the professor of that class. You may think that four years is a long time, but before you know it, you'll be walking across that stage to receive your diploma. Saint Joseph's College has a lot to offer its students. But it's up to you to take advantage of those offerings. Make the most of your time spent here!

STUDENT UNION BOARD

Show your "Puma-Pride" through
SJC's programming board

Hello and welcome to Saint Joseph's . . .

For many of you this is a new experience not only because of being away from home, but because you have never seen so much corn. You may be wondering what there is to do in small-town Indiana. This is where the Student Union Board steps in. It is our job to find the best entertainment for the students' money.

Last year we traveled abroad to come up with new ideas and entertainment for Pumaville. So this year we are going to need all the help we can get! One of the best things about S.U.B. is that it's run by the students for the students. We need your help. We have made so many changes that there will be room for anyone who wants to help. We will be looking for new chairpersons to run our new as well as old committees. We hope that we can help you forget the corn fields and think about an EXCITING SEMESTER!

If you have any ideas or opinions feel free to let us know; call our office at 6314 or leave a note in the mailbox in Halleck Center. Don't be shy; we have room for everyone. Come plan a party!

DRIVERS. VOLUNTEERS START YOUR ENGINES!

And get ready for the greatest weekend in college history -- The 31st Annual SUB-sponsored LITTLE 500!

Each spring, campus becomes a race course with go-karts flying around the track competing for some great cash prizes! You can be a part of the action in a number of ways:

DRIVING

Drivers must pay a fifty dollar entry fee, must supply his or her own kart, and must comply with all the safety rules and regulations of the race. Entry deadline is January 21, 1993. The Little 500 Chairs will be holding informational meetings in the fall to answer any questions that you might have about the race, kart specifications, rules, etc. Keep an eye out for those early meetings, for you could be the champion!!!!

VOLUNTEERING

The entire race is student-run; from drivers to pit crew to track marshals, from booth concessionaires to bands coordinators, the people who make the race happen and bring the greatest college weekend in the world are your friends right here on campus. You can help with Little 500 as well. Even if you have only a couple hours to spare, we would love your help. The Little 500 chairpersons, any member of SUB, and the Director of Student Activities can locate a job just right for you and your interests.

MORE INFORMATION

The Puma Guide has a great deal of information regarding Little 500. Read on for further details! And get ready to have a ball!

Resident Assistants: More than just disciplinarians

Your resident assistants are ready to help you, and in more ways than you think. RAs are not just the persons on the floors who are in charge, and they do not act just like disciplinarians. Instead, RAs can become your best friends, and can help make your years at Saint Joe's that much more fun and rewarding.

It is true that your RAs are the FIRST SOURCE for a number of your problems in the residence halls. Having difficulty getting along with you roommate? Need to figure out how to get a personal phone installed in your room? Having troubles with you cable TV reception? These are very simple questions that your RAs can help answer and get you on your way to a great school year!

Don't be afraid to ask your RAs for help. Not only do they serve as great resource persons, but they also are great peer counselors who can help you when you're having a down day. Your RAs do care about your well-being, and want to see you succeed at SJC.

Resident assistants also help out more than just your floor. Each year, RAs are required to complete a project that helps make this school even greater. Some projects are simply fun and thrilling, while others are educational and refreshing. They've sponsored Canoe Races and Winter Olympics. Healthier People Seminars and Date Rape Forums. It's their responsibility to help you get to love Saint Joe even more!!

Making the grade Counseling Services can help

Counseling Services makes available to students free support services, i.e., study skills, tutoring, reading improvement, personal counseling, tests, inventories. Within this framework, students have an opportunity to improve their academic and social work. Counseling Services plans the Orientation program. Students on academic probation or with special needs can find resources in Counseling Services.

Diane Jennings, Director of Counseling Services, was awarded the Counselor of the Year Award in 1990 from the National Association of Developmental Education. She also received the Outstanding

Diane Jennings

Advisor Award from the scholastic honorary society, Alpha Lambda Delta. Diane has been in the counseling area of SJC for 15 years. She and her husband, Bill, have been at the College for 26 years. They are the parents of nine children three of whom are presently in college and two in graduate school.

Joan Cramer, Counseling Services secretary, serves as an assistant in all aspects of the services offered to students. She is the friendly contact in the Counseling Services Office who will see that all questions are answered and will direct you to the appropriate resources.

Career Planning & Placement

It's not just for Seniors!

By CHRIS BESCHNETT

Director of Career Planning & Placement

Some of you may have the idea that Career Planning and Placement is the place Seniors go when they want to get a job. Well, helping Seniors learn how to conduct a successful job search is one aspect of what the Career Planning and Placement Office does. But Career Development is something that requires more than a quick visit before graduation in order to set up a credential file. Career Development is something which starts during your freshman year, and should continue on throughout your working life.

Many of you who are freshmen are probably thinking "Why do I have to worry about Career Development? I'm not going to graduate for another four years." However, Career Development is something which should start as soon as possible, in order to make finding that first professional position less complicated. As a freshman, you can start to assess your interests and skills, and identify potential careers which might take full advantage of those interests and skills. You can also start to get involved in activities which will help you learn about yourself and give you leadership opportunities. In your sophomore and junior years, you might be able to find work experiences which will enhance and develop your skills, and give you the experience that future employers will want. Then, by the time you are a senior and ready to begin your job searching, you will have a clear focus on what you want to do, and what you have to offer in the world of work.

For those of you who are considering furthering your education after graduation, the following is a partial list of important testing dates:

GRE TEST DATES:

October 9, 1993

December 11, 1993

February 5, 1994

April 9, 1994

June 4, 1994

GMAT TEST DATES

October 16, 1993

January 15, 1994

March 19, 1994

June 18, 1994

FOREIGN SERVICE

WRITTEN

EXAMINATION:

November 13, 1993

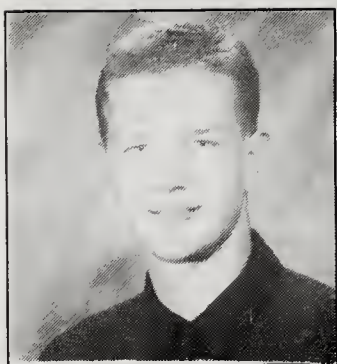

Registration and information bulletins are available in the Career Planning and Placement Office. Registrations are usually due at least a month before testing.

Opportunities for Career Development exist for ALL students at Saint Joseph's College, whether you need individual career counseling, a workshop on job search skills, or resource materials; just stop by the Career Planning and Placement Office on the 3rd floor of Halleck Center, or call Christine Beschnett at ext. 6355.

St. Joe equals opportunity

By KARA COSTA

Co-Valedictorian, Class of '93

Hello and welcome to Saint Joseph's College! This is only the beginning of what will prove to be four years of opportunity: opportunity to pursue and excel in an academic field of interest; opportunity to meet new people, to explore new places, to make lifelong friendships; opportunity to be involved in activities you've never been involved with before. Sometimes those opportunities will come knocking on your door, and other times you'll have to do a little searching. But don't worry because Saint Joseph's College and all its faculties will be there to guide you along the way.

Opportunities stem from many different aspects of Saint Joseph's, but clearly the people are the College's greatest resource. And it's the people, whether it be a professor, administrator, staff member or peer, that will help you seize all of your opportunities. Use these resources, these people, because they are here for you.

Although academics is considered primary at Saint Joseph's, the faculty, staff and administrators realize that social and personal development are just as important in creating a well-rounded student. Keep this in mind during the next four years of your college experience and take advantage of the opportunities before you. It's true, you're at a small Midwestern college, but the opportunities are big ... if you take advantage of them.

I wish you all the best. Remember that success comes in different forms to every individual. Success is not always making the Dean's List or making a winning basket in a game. Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote that success is:

"To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. This is to have succeeded."

Part of college is learning who you are and what you have to offer this world. Have fun in doing this - you will be creating some of the most memorable events of your life. I guarantee that if you seize your academic and social opportunities, you will have succeeded in your own way at Saint Joseph's College. Again, I wish you the best! Good luck!

Graduate offers words of advice, wisdom

By MICHAEL SCUDDER

Co-Valedictorian, Class of '93

When I first came to St. Joe just four years ago, I had little idea what I wanted to study in college. At that time, I thought I wanted to go to law school after completing my undergraduate work at St. Joe, and I soon learned from my academic advisor that a pre-law student could major in just about anything he/she desired. After talking with my advisor and taking a wide variety of courses my first semester, I decided to pursue a major in accounting.

Deciding on what to study in college can be a difficult decision. Some of you probably already know what you would like to major in while others are not quite sure yet. If you do already happen to know what you would like to study, St. Joe will allow you to get started in your major right away during your first semester. However, if you are still unsure of what you would like to study, don't worry, you're not alone. It wasn't until my sophomore year that I decided to major in accounting. Talking to your advisor, whom you will meet within your first week on campus, and taking a wide variety of courses your first year will help make your decision much easier.

Regardless of what you decide to study at St. Joe, one thing for certain is that you will be privileged to receive one of the finest college educations available over the course of the next four years. The dedication of the faculty and staff, the quality of the Core program, and the individual efforts you put forth over the next four years will all work together to provide you with a well-rounded college education. The size of St. Joe will also benefit you greatly. Your classes will be small enough that you will become personally acquainted with each of your professors. During my four years at St. Joe, I always found the professors more than willing to give a student a little extra help with some material or to just simply listen to any problems you may be facing. I would like to encourage you to take advantage of and utilize the academic resources available to you at St. Joe. The following are four of my suggestions:

1) Utilize the academic tutoring services provided by the Counseling Services Office in Halleck Center. The tutors are students just like yourself who will understand the difficulties you are experiencing in a given subject.

2) Utilize the services offered by the Writing Clinic. It is there other students will proofread your papers and make suggestions to improve your writing skills.

3) Learn how to effectively and efficiently conduct research in the library. Furthermore, don't be afraid to call upon the library staff to assist you with your research projects.

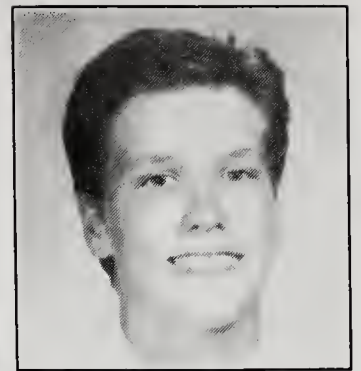

4) Become familiar with the St. Joe computer network. The resources available to you on the network will allow you to efficiently complete your class papers and many of your other needs. The SJC computer network is much more than just word processing, so become familiar with the systems early in your first year.

In closing, I would just like to personally challenge you give these next four years all you've got. Academic success at St. Joe will not come easy, but just think about it, college is not supposed to be easy. If you learn early on during your first year to manage your time effectively, you'll find these next four years to be some of the most exciting and intellectually stimulating years of your life. Good luck!

Graduate looks back

By SHEILA BROUSSARD MAXWELL

Co-Valedictorian, Class of '93

Welcome SJC freshmen! I remember my first day of classes at St. Joe like it was yesterday. I had Core 1 lecture in the auditorium, and I was so nervous walking in to take a seat. I knew that most students had already met others, whether they be their roommates or people on their floor.

But I was a day student, and was afraid that I would know no one. Luckily, I spotted some other students that graduated from the same high school as I did and sat with them during lecture.

I decided on that day that I didn't want that situation of awkwardness to happen again while I was at St. Joe. So, I soon became involved in clubs on campus. Then I took a job as a computer lab monitor which eventually turned into a student computer administrator position. Through these various activities, I met so many people. The relationships that have grown through my years here at St. Joe are priceless.

I know that from day to day, homework and studying seemed to dominate my life, but as I look back, I remember special times with friends. Going to Washington D.C. with the Alpha Lambda Delta group was one of the best times I had with friends in college. And I recall the time that a few of Dr. Egan's Core Class students went to a Shakespearean Bardathon at Purdue. We thought that we would just be reading Shakespeare for twelve hours with thousands of other college students. As it turned out, there were maybe forty people there. I think every one of us wanted to jump in our cars and go back to St. Joe. But we stayed, and I think everyone who went had a great time and made friendships in the process.

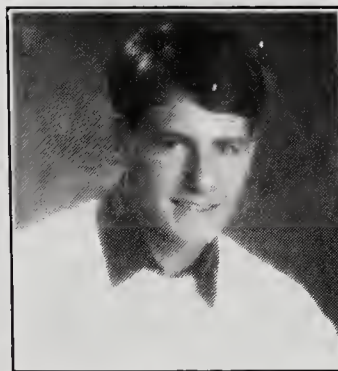

These extracurricular activities weren't the only times that I recall with friends. Late night cram sessions for a test or a final were so much better when studying with other students. And I will never forget when my Software Engineering group stayed almost two days continuously at the computer center to finish our semester-long project for our final presentation. Talk about exhaustion!

My last days at Saint Joseph's College as a student have been very different from my first days experience. In my four years here, I have made friends with students and faculty members who are very dear to me. I will always remember Saint Joseph's College for the wonderful times I have had and for the special relationships that have grown into beautiful friendships. I would suggest to you, as freshmen, to take every opportunity to become involved with activities at St. Joe, to get to know the professors, and to build special, lasting friendships. If you do, I promise that you will look back after four years and know that you gained more than an education at Saint Joseph's College.

JANA M. FRANCIS
Racine, Wisconsin

Jana will be a business major. She enjoys spending time with friends (especially her boyfriend), reading, listening to music, sports, and Habitat for Humanity. She was active in high school with soccer (goalkeeper) and NHS.

Graduate gives time management advice, tips

By SHERYL L. KLEMME

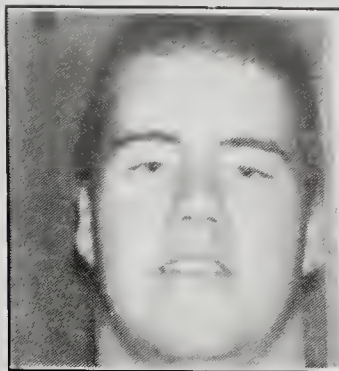

Co-Valedictorian, Class of '93

As your parents take you to Saint Joseph's College to unload your things and embark on a brand new experience, I am sure that they will be thinking that your college days will be filled with classes and studying. However, much to your parents' dismay and your personal relief, academics and the SJC Core Program are not the things that will occupy the majority of your time. For instance, the average student spends approximately three hours per day in class. Add to that another five hours per day studying and preparing for those classes (well, some of you will invest more time ... and some of you less!). Of course, another six to eight hours must be set aside for sleep. Now, that leaves at least nine hours of each day with which to do what you choose. So you see, the majority of the next four years will not be spent in the classroom or the library; rather, the experience you acquire from the extracurricular activities will be just as valuable as the knowledge you will gain from books and lectures.

Consequently, my advice to you is to take advantage of all the opportunities which the St. Joe campus has to offer. Certainly SJC is not one of the largest institutions in the country; nor is St. Joe situated in a metropolitan area bursting with sky-scrappers and cultural events. However, St. Joe is a small, beautiful campus where those who meet you at the cafe or on the grounds greet you by your first name ... where certain professors prefer to be called by their first names ... where the faculty and administrators take a personal interest in your well-being. Don't concentrate on what St. Joe is not; rather, focus on what St. Joe is. Saint Joseph's College is a friendly community of administrators, faculty, alumni, and students dedicated to the common goals of higher education, Christian fellowship, and personal growth. By taking advantage of the extracurricular opportunities on campus and the academic opportunities in the classroom, you are sure to leave Saint Joseph's College with a diploma as well as a fulfilling education and a heart full of treasured memories.

Alumni Association

President welcomes first-year students

By JOHN CAREY

Alumni Association, President

On behalf of the Saint Joseph's College Alumni Association, I wish to welcome you to a challenging and meaningful college experience.

The Alumni Association is just one of four organizations that impact your college life. While the work and efforts of the Board of Trustees, the Administration, and the faculty are largely visible and felt on a daily basis, the Alumni Board intrudes on your student life infrequently at best, and then generally, only in your senior year. We come into play after you have hung up your cleats and sneakers, sold or put away your books, and unloaded your personal furniture and other room memorabilia and struck out, diploma in hand, to conquer the career world. At that point we help you to maintain contact with fellow grads and your college.

Considering that much of what we do is strictly low priority to you at this moment, I won't go into a detailed list of our activities. Instead, I'll just tell you that one Alumni Board project that will touch your campus life is the campus beautification project.

Working in concert with both the Facilities and Planning Department and Reverend Charles Rueve, we will assist the college in its efforts to landscape.

In conclusion, I welcome you to Saint Joseph's College and wish you well in your educational efforts. If you at any time have either questions about our work, or suggestions for us, please feel free to contact Ken Benich (President of the Student Association) or Natalie Schweitzer (President of the Senior Class). These students are full members of our board and represent your interests.

I look forward to seeing you on campus.
